MESSAGE FROM THE EDITOR

The WEEKLY TIMES

Australian farmers must be the most resilient in the world. Drought, floods, cheap imports, red tape, no matter what gets thrown their way they not only manage, but prosper.

The past 12 months have presented some unique problems for farmers across southeast Australia. But, as you will see in these awards today, no challenge is too great for the innovative, persistent and brave.

The Weekly Times Farm Business Awards highlight those farmers who not only accept a challenge, but relish it, who can turn adversity into opportunity.

With world food shortages, strong demand for biofuels and a growing appetite in developing nations, Australian agriculture stands on the cusp of exciting times.

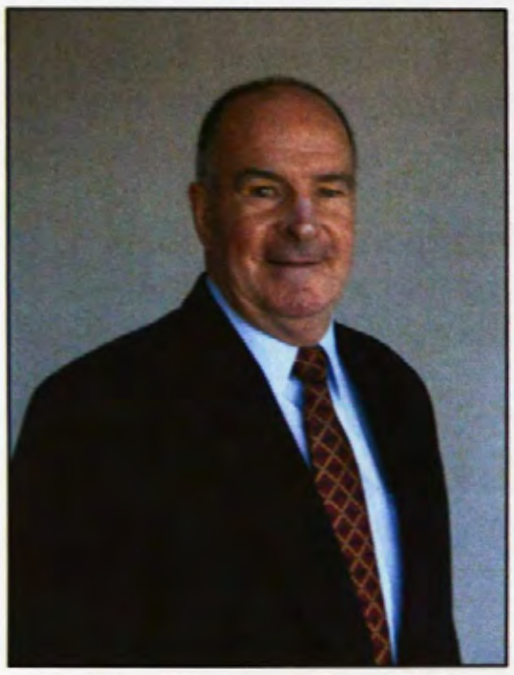
And these awards highlight the methods and philosophies that will capture the opportunities that are coming farming's way.

The finalists in The Weekly Times Farm Business Awards deserve the accolades they will be given today and I congratulate their achievements.

The Weekly Times is again delighted to join forces with the RASV to present these prestigious awards.

Ed Gannon,
Editor
The Weekly Times

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT



It has been another very challenging year for many rural producers with the ongoing impact of dry seasonal conditions coupled with increasing cost pressures within the economy. Against this background we continually marvel at the innovative approach taken by producers to enhance their prospects with new technology, science, management systems and marketing.

We believe The Weekly Times Farm Business Awards plays a valuable role in encouraging and rewarding the endeavours of these outstanding producers (business managers) which are often unnoticed in the broader community.

Launched in 2005, The Weekly Times Farm Business Awards has brought together a number of awards conducted previously by both the RAS and The Weekly Times. The program identifies and celebrates the achievements of farming business leaders across all primary agricultural sectors.

We are very grateful for the strong support of our sponsors, Bayer CropScience, CASE IH, Genetics Australia, Rural Finance, Victorian Agricultural Shows Limited, the Department of Primary Industries and of course The Weekly Times. Their involvement in the Awards extends beyond financial input, forming a much valued network in helping us seek out the best of the best in the field of agriculture, and is indicative of their commitment to excellence in Australian agribusiness.

Congratulations to the winners of each category and the overall winner of the coveted Weekly Times Farm Business of the Year, Cutri Fruit, of Woorinen in Victoria.

A special thank you to all the entrants and their communities for supporting the competition.

Our judges have again professionally handled the daunting task of selecting the winners of each category from a very competitive field and to them I extend a big thank you.

In an ever changing world we trust the achievements of our winners will encourage and assist others who are embarking on a similar journey as knowledge and information is shared through their success in The Weekly Times Farm Business Awards.

While appreciating the contributions of all involved we look forward to progressing this competition with your ongoing support to enhance the future of Australian agribusiness.

John Fox
President

THE JUDGING PROCESS

Farm businesses were eligible to enter the Awards if they had been in operation for more than three years and located within Victoria and the Riverina district of New South Wales.

The DPI Young Farmer of the Year was open to producers 35 years of age and under.

The Production Category Judging Panels

There were six specific Production Category Judging Panels consisting of expert industry personnel who completed the first stage of judging.

Each farming enterprise was assessed using information they provided in the Business Assessment Questionnaire, which were developed with the specific commodity in mind, but a balanced range of criteria was maintained throughout.

Judges assessed performances of each entrant over the past three years and their future plans based on the following criteria:

Production Assessment	50%
Environmental Management	15%
Technology Applications	15%
People Development	10%
Future Plans	10%
TOTAL	100%

The winner of each specific Production Category (Alternative Farming, Beef, Crop, Dairy, Horticulture and Sheep) proceeded to the final stage of judging to compete for the overall Weekly Times Farm Business of the Year Award.

The Finalist Judging Panel

The Finalist Judging Panel comprised of representatives from leading agribusiness organisations. The Panel selected the overall Weekly Times Farm Business of the Year using the same criteria as the Production Category Judging Panels.

Producers who had nominated as young farmers were selected by each Production Category Judging Panel to be considered for The Department of Primary Industries Farmer of the Year Award. The recipient of this award was also determined by the Finalist Judging Panel.

Cutri Fruit

The Cutri Fruit slogan is "A passion for fruit" – and you soon realise why. "Can we talk and eat?" Gaethan Cutri asked before a tour of the 280 hectare farm at Woorinen, near Swan Hill. "I love stone fruit," he said. "I don't eat much else during stone fruit season."

The Cutri family markets two main lines: Cutri Fruit and Tasti Fruit, which include mostly nectarines plus peaches, apricots and plums. The business tracks how many kilograms of fruit are produced per tree and per hectare, as well as the prices paid and all sales.

Trees are monitored for how many pieces of fruit are grown before and after thinning, and even how many pieces of fruit are grown on each lateral branch.

"We have key performance indicators on different varieties for pruning – how many laterals we want to leave per tree, how many limbs, the length of the laterals; everything we do we've put numbers around," Gaethan said.

The business used to export about 60 per cent of its produce – mostly white nectarines – to Taiwan. It now exports 40 per cent of production to Hong Kong, with 50 per cent sold to Coles and 10 per cent to Safeway. The focus on the domestic market came from Gaethan's belief that it may take years to win back export rights to Taiwan.

He said the only way he could manage such a large farm was to keep it simple. "Consistency, simplicity, everything the same, lots of one variety: these things all make it easy," Gaethan said. Family members also take overseas trips to inspect new varieties and learn from other farmers. Drip irrigation is computer controlled and frost-limiting techniques are used. A pheromone trial is in progress in a bid to deter the pest beetle capophilus. "It's about reducing the chemicals on the product," Gaethan said.

*Gaethan Cutri is also a finalist in the DPI Young Farmer of the Year Award.

THE BAYER CROPSCIENCE HORTICULTURE PRODUCER OF THE YEAR FINALISTS

Elgo Estate – Grant & Suzanne Taresch

This is a story about wind and wine. Of how Elgo Estate, in a possibly world first, is using a wind turbine to harvest enough energy to run its winery. Elgo Estate, near Avenel in the Strathbogie Ranges, is run by Grant and Sue Taresch, who began in the industry 15 years ago with a small vineyard in the same district. Ten years ago, the Taresch family, including Grant's parents – who run a graphic-design business in Melbourne – bought a bigger 1000 hectare farm on the slopes of nearby Upton Hill and set about planting 65 hectares of grapes.

Grant said the property was a farm first and a winery second. "When we bought this farm, it was running 700 wethers and the gullies were eroded and full of rabbits and blackberry," Grant said. With the help of Landcare, the creeks and gullies were fenced off and the eroded areas revegetated. Pastures were renovated and less-productive rocky areas were fenced off and returned to nature. "It is now totally different and we can run 3000 Merino sheep," Grant, who was a wool classer before moving to viticulture, said.

The farm's elevation of 500m suited cool-climate vines. "We don't get frosts," he said. The altitude also proved suitable for a wind turbine, installed recently to power the winery.

The vineyard, planted to Sauvignon Blanc, Riesling, Shiraz and Merlot, produced its first commercial vintage in 2004. About 6000 cases are bottled under the Elgo Estate label and are mostly sold to independent Melbourne retailers. A small percentage is exported. The remaining fruit, equivalent to about 19,000 cases, is sold as bulk wine.

J & D Conti Pty Ltd

Adrian Conti is the third generation of his family to grow fruit on the Murray River at Cobram. The family has two properties in Cobram and another near Griffith, in NSW, growing and packing stone and pome fruit. They grow apples, pears, peaches, plums, nectarines, apricots and persimmons, producing an average 2500 tonnes of fruit per year.

"We have computerised spraying equipment, automated irrigation and automatic tipping, washing, waxing and weight-sizing of fruit," Adrian said. Diversification has been the focus during the past 15 years, moving away from growing fruit mostly for canning to growing peaches and pears for the fresh market, as well as adding apricots, plums and nectarines. "Apples and persimmons have been added to extend our (growing) season."

Adrian said Griffith was two weeks earlier in ripening than Cobram. "This gives us the ability to supply a particular variety for almost a month between the two properties," he said.

Two years ago the family designed and built a semi-automatic harvester. It carries up to nine pickers, copes with different levels of fruit, loads and unloads bins, and can auto steer. "We have also invested heavily into trellis," Adrian said. "This gives us uniformity of trees and early-bearing fruit." Adrian said the family was one of the pioneers of Integrated Pest Management, now in its 19th year. "We have recently invested in Grow data software." This records a full spray diary, undertakes stock control, generates planting lists and records production and fertilizer application.

*Adrian Conti is also a finalist in the DPI Young Farmer of the Year Award.

Shaw Pastoral Pty Ltd

In July last year, more than 80 per cent of David and Janet Shaw's Newry property was under water. Two months later, fences had been repaired, debris cleared and the Shaws were quickly back on track. Cropping makes up 90 per cent of the Shaw's enterprise, with emphasis placed on fodder production, including 200 hectares of lucerne. The Shaws run two properties – one at Newry for irrigation and a 200 hectares dryland farm at Glenmaggie, used predominantly for grain, hay and prime lamb production.

Their enterprise is flexible enough to swing from grain to fodder quickly, depending on seasonal conditions and commodity prices.

"To have that option with the market and season is great," David said. "Last year it all went to hay, while this year it will go to grain as good prices are predicted." Fodder crops include straight lucerne or cereal lucerne mixes, which are becoming a more popular stockfeed due to the balance of protein and energy. Cereals mixed into lucerne crops include triticale, wheat or oats, which is oversown with a zero-drill combine and helps bulk up the first cut of lucerne. The mixes are easier to sell because they are suitable for both dry and milking cows.

The Shaws have been zero-till cropping for three years and own all their own equipment and trucks. This ensures they can harvest and bale at exactly the right time, and can also deliver lucerne anywhere from south and west Gippsland through to NSW and Queensland.

Canola is sold to Melbourne but all cereal grain produced is purchased by local dairy farmers.

Nalda Park Pastoral Company

Nathan and Penny Craig are a young couple committed to their fledgling farming enterprise and to building the rural community. The couple, who met while studying Agriculture at Adelaide University, run a sheep and cropping enterprise near Apsley, in the lower West Wimmera Shire. As well as building their farm at Apsley, adding leased land, and building a contracting business and Limousin stud, they are heavily involved in farming groups. Penny also works for Solly Business Services at Naracoorte and is studying for a masters degree in Agricultural Science.

The Craig's farm in partnership with Nathan's parents, Bill and Debbie. Their home block, Nalda Park is 500 hectares and they also lease 900 hectares and manage another 80 hectares. They run 5500 sheep, including 3000 Merino ewes – 1800 mated to Merinos for a self replacing flock and 1200 to terminal sires for prime lambs. The family aims to balance the cropping and sheep enterprises equally in terms of time. "The key is to get crops in early, being able to dry sow," Nathan said. No hard-and-fast rules apply to the no-till crop rotation, but the Craigs try to follow a cereal with a non-stubble crop to minimise sowing difficulties.

To cope with their expanding contracting business, they have bought a secondhand ruber-tracked Cat Challenger 35 and Horwood Bagshaw Simplicity Combo airseeder, to which Nathan has added press wheels and a chemical boom.

"Flexibility is the key to get through these mongrel seasons," Nathan said. "We are doing all we can to lower our costs, make the most of our options and squeeze more from the system."

BJ, JT & MW Veale

A focus on business management has helped Mark and Julie Veale weather the drought. The grain and sheep farmers believe using a business management framework, instead of concentrating solely on production, is helping them through the tough times. Mark said the skills gained through training could be applied in ways not originally intended.

The Veales are the fifth generation to take on the family farm, which also supports Mark's parents. Over the past eight years they have doubled its size to about 1200 hectares and leased another 480 hectares. As well as cropping and sheep operations, the Veales have a few water buffaloes and deer. They also have a 10 hectare agroforestry lot producing veneer timber for the furniture industry. Crops comprise canola, wheat and barley, although some forage oats were sown last year.

Mark and Julie are steering towards biological farming. They have progressively incorporated stubble retention and have set up a business brewing fungi and microbes to produce a "compost tea" for spraying on soils and crops. Mark said the aim was to control diseases, but they eventually wanted to use compost tea to also reduce insect pests and weeds.

He said they had virtually no stripe rust on their kellalac wheat crops in seasons during which neighbours had suffered problems. Their gairdner barley was virtually free of scald and managed to make the malting grade: a rarity in the region.

Canola crops grown in the biological system had the same yields as other crops gown conventionally on the farm but had 2 per cent higher oil content. "I can't put it down to anything else but the microbes," Mark said.

WT & KJ Bodman

Bill Bodman had bounce in his step during spring last year. The seasons had finally taken a positive turn for the Won Wron dairy farmer. More than 75mm of rain fell in the region at the same time as milk prices lifted and a silage crop has produced a bumper yield. "I think we have a reasonable chance of getting out of trouble," Bill said at the time. "This is our chance to regain lost ground...I think it is achievable despite high grain prices."

Bill and his wife, Janie, milk 215 cows off 120 hectares near Yarram in South Gippsland. The silage cut in spring produced 560 rolls last year, compared with a meagre 93 rolls the year before. "We were surprised to get that much on limited rainfall but we had pushed hard with urea since winter when we had some moisture," he said.

The Bodmans, who had below-average rainfall since mid-winter, had resown in autumn with annual and biannual pasture seed to grow more feed. "We planned to push things hard early in the year and it has paid off," Bill said. "Re-sowing has not only provided better quality pasture for cows but it grows much better silage, too, which is cheaper than buying feed."

The Bodmans expected a hay cut of about 400 rolls. They also trialled a 5 hectare sorghum crop in an attempt to "grow as much dry matter as possible" on a small irrigation licence. Their cows, which produced 32 litres of milk a head last spring, were fed 1.8-2.0 tonnes of dry matter a hectare in 2006, while last year the aim was seven tonnes DM/ha. He said the milk price rise was a confidence booster, "I would be optimistic looking forward," he said.

THE GENETICS AUSTRALIA DAIRY PRODUCER OF THE YEAR FINALISTS

Hamily Pty Ltd

A dry, warm winter and low water levels in major irrigation storages convinced Stanhope dairy farmer Ian Hamono to begin early preparations. "We were heading into the (spring) season with 570 cows and we believed it was too risky," Ian said. Ian and his wife, Mary, decided to sell milking cows to bring their numbers below 500 and use that money to buy extra water and fodder.

By moving early, they secured 700 megalitres and are budgeting on a 30 per cent water allocation of their water right of 800 megalitres. The Hamonos usually use 1100 megalitres but last year 950 megalitres saw them through after Ian devised plans to use the water efficiently.

With help on feed budgeting from the Department of Primary Industries, he grew as much spring feed and cut as much silage as possible. Annual pastures and half the usual permanent pastures have been watered, letting the rest dry before over-sowing in autumn. The move to long-season annuals, which the cows graze from March to November, has proved successful and means Ian doesn't have to water perennials over summer.

Last summer they also stuck to their normal routine of planting 22 hectares of maize, because it is extremely water efficient. In addition, the Hamonos have a feed pad that enables them to buy cheaper feed, such as citrus pulp, kibble and canola meal. The area of perennials was cut to 40 hectares because of the dry but will return to 70 hectares when conditions improve. Ian said cows were on a split diet, getting a morning feed on pasture and a night feed of silage on the feed pad before they go into a dry paddock. "There is an additional cost to this approach but the cost is balanced by the improved quality of feed."

RW Hodge & Son

Since shifting from perennial pasture to an annual pasture-based semi-feedlot system, Stuart Hodge has increased herd size almost fivefold in the past 20 years. Cow numbers have jumped from 220 to 1000 on the 430 hectare farm at Numurkah, of which 228 hectares is the milking area. Total milk production in 2006-2007 was 7.329 million litres: about 460,000 litres up on the previous season. "Our number-one goal is to survive the drought at full production," Stuart said.

The farm has been in the Hodge family since 1942 and was changed to dairying in 1982. Annual pastures and summer cropping allow large amounts of feed to be stored as silage. "This silage is then incorporated into a total mixed ration, which is then fed back to the cows when no green feed is available," Stuart said. Green feed is fed either by direct grazing or by harvesting and feeding the "green chop" back to the cows through the TMR in a "cut-and-carry" system.

All replacement stock are agisted at 10 months of age. "Currently we have a significant number of heifers in Tasmania," Stuart said. Cows are milked in a 45-unit rotary dairy which has an automatic identification and a 155m-long undercover feed pad. Fully lasered, the property has a flexible irrigation layout which includes a comprehensive drainage network and a 35-megalitre re-use dam to make the most of a 1441-megalitre water licence. Stuart said there was still room for expansion. "Our future growth will be in milk production per cow and forage production."

PA & MT Kirk

Peter Kirk was quietly pleased with how his drought-survival plan worked out. He managed to keep his beef herd of 350 breeding cows intact while also carrying 290 weaners through the dry on his two Tallangatta farms.

"We have come through the drought with minimal tree losses and the beef herd is intact," Peter said. And after welcome autumn rain, he was able to slip a shovel easily into the topsoil and turn up rich, friable humus teeming with earthworms and other desirable soil biology.

Peter said building topsoil had been a passion of his for a long time, along with caring for remnant vegetation.

He has evolved his own style of land management, influenced in part by attending numerous courses, such as Prograze, Beefcheque and Cattlecare, and forums on soil health, chemical use and European Union accreditation.

The drought, he said, was a wake-up call. "That was when I discovered an environmental-management system pilot program in our region," he said. EMS provides a management framework based on a simple "plan, do, check and act" cycle that achieves continual structured improvement. It covers issues such as business efficiency, environmental and financial risk, natural resource management and environmental protection.

Peter and his wife, Marie, bought their 101 hectare home block at Georges Creek in 1977 and a 404 hectare farm, Spring Creek, three years later.

They run a closed herd of 350 breeding cows based on Injemira Hereford bloodlines and turn off steers at feedlot-entry liveweights of 430-450kg.

THE RAS BEEF PRODUCER OF THE YEAR FINALISTS

G & J Irvine

Cattle finishers Geoff and Jean Irvine run a full time beef operation, but for only part of the year. "We rest the property for two months in April-May to build a substantial feed wedge ready for when the trading cycle begins again in June," Geoff stated.

The Irvine's buy store weaner heifers in June at an average 220kg live weight and finish them to an average of 400kg for the domestic market.

Although they farm just 16 hectares near Warragul, their stocking rate is impressive, taking advantage of the normally reliable climate and fertile soils. However below average rainfall in recent years is a cause for concern. "It could mean a reduction in potential stocking rate," Geoff noted. Stocking rate has dropped from 45 to 34 DSE/ha over the past three seasons in line with a fall in rainfall. Beef production last year was 885kg/ha, down from 114kg/ha three years ago, although this has been off set by a lift in average sale prices from $1.59/kg to $1.77/kg.

Geoff places a high priority on pasture nutrition and grazing management. "When we bought the property in 1997, it was weed infested with little improved pasture. Since then we have established perennial ryegrass, cocksfoot and white clover pastures and planted 2000 trees for shelter." Fertiliser, mulching and aeration help achieve an annual pasture growth of 14 tonnes/ha and a daily weight gain in the cattle of more than 1kg/day.

Frank Hill

Frank Hill loves putting his bulls to the test. The Heathcote beef producer has his Angus and Salers bulls gene tested in a bid to produce tender beef and improve the marbling content of his herd.

Frank runs 300 Angus-Salers cross breeders on his 600 hectare farm at Heathcote in central Victoria. He uses GeneStar technology to detect marbling and tenderness genes in his bulls. Like any good cattleman, Frank thinks about every facet of his farming. In a poor season, he can run a stocking rate of a cow and calf on 2.4 hectares of his poorest country. With calves last year averaging $550 at nine months, his return was $192 a hectare. In a good season in 2001, he averaged $700 for his calves, returning $264/ha. Frank also runs first-cross ewes on his best country at 2.4/ha.

Cattle provide 80 per cent of Frank's income and lamb 20 per cent. "I try and produce as much meat as I can at the highest quality I can," Frank noted.

Using the GeneStar technology of Brisbane based company Genetic Solutions, Frank sends hair samples from his bulls to detect tenderness and marbling characteristics. Frank attends sales of different breeds throughout the year and searches for GeneStar results alongside the estimated breed values in the catalogue. "What I'm doing is using all the tools at my disposal to breed the most tender beef I can."

L'Lubatog Nominees Pty Ltd – Apostle Whey Cheese

When milk prices slumped a few years ago, Julian and Dianne Benson were quick to take advantage of their farm's second-greatest asset after the cows: its location. The 147 hectare farm, at Cooriemungle, near Simpson in southwest Victoria, is close to the Twelve Apostles, one of the state's premier tourist attractions.

With hundreds of visitors passing their door each week, and many tourists already dropping in to see a working dairy farm, the Bensons decided that the best way to boost their income was to start making their own cheeses. They enrolled in a cheese-making course at Gilbert Chandler College at Werribee and, two years later, in September 2005, opened Apostle Whey cheese factory.

Today, with a couple of competition gold medals under their belt, the Bensons sell their cheeses from the farm gate and also supply gourmet food shops, wineries and restaurants.

They produce several varieties, all with colourful names. The varieties include Loch Ard Gorgeous camembert, Apostle Crumble fetta, Misty Moonlight Head blue vein, The Grotto havarti and Southern Briez brie.

The couple admit they have come a long way since moving to the-then 73 hectare farm in 1981. The farm now covers 147 hectare and milks 250 Friesian cows. About 80,000 litres, from a production of 1.6 million litres of milk, is used for cheese production.

THE RAS ALTERNATIVE FARMING PRODUCER OF THE YEAR FINALISTS

Nature's Haven

Riverina vegetable growers Don and Elaine Murray have no trouble getting labour. They have literally millions of workers ready to toil day and night for no pay and just their keep. Their workers are ladybirds, and they are largely responsible for the quality of produce the Murrays deliver by simply eating the bad bugs away.

The Murrays began their organic vegetable business, Nature's Haven, in 2002 on a 33 hectare block that is now certified organic. The Murrays have grown several crops, including varieties of pumpkins, watermelons, rockmelons, squash, shallots, garlic, rosemary, cherry tomatoes and herbs.

Most weeks they consign two lots of vegetables to each of the Sydney, Brisbane and Melbourne markets. They have also sold 22 tonnes of pumpkins to Heinz for baby food. It's deals such as this Don hopes to secure more of in the future.

The Murray's decision to go organic was both philosophical and economic. "Sure, it was a philosophical decision and it requires a whole different mindset," Don said. "You have to be able to plan ahead, and organic production requires ongoing management rather than a quick-fix attitude."

But it is no secret that he and Elaine were also attracted by the prospect of higher returns. "Organics sell for anything from zero to 100 per cent above the wholesale price for conventionally produced vegetables," Don said. While two-thirds of the area is irrigated and farmed, a third has been set aside for native vegetation. The native vegetation also acts as a harbour for the predators that eat many of the insects that attack their vegetables. "Our cropping management practices are all about working in harmony with nature and natural processes," Elaine said.

Hastings Ostrich Services Pty Ltd

Michael Hastings knows all about the highs and lows of breeding ostriches, having ridden the industry rollercoaster. He and his wife, Victoria, own and run Hastings Ostrich Farms, at Winchelsea, and are involved in every aspect of ostrich production, from breeding birds to selling the finished products.

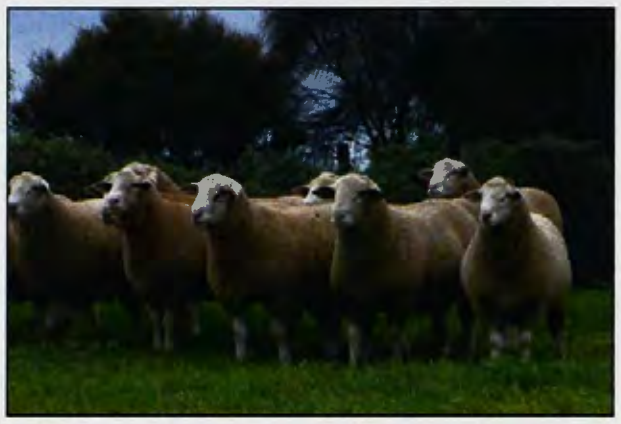
Just about every part of an ostrich has a market, from meat for eating, hide for leather goods, feathers for the fashion industry and eggs for the craft industry. The Hastings family ventured into ostrich breeding when Michael was at university studying agriculture, as an alternative to beef cattle. "We started with eight chicks and now we hatch between 7000-9000 birds a year," Michael said.

"We have a specialised breeder farm, a specialised hatchery and grower farm, and then we sell a lot of day-old chicks to other companies, who then get them contract-reared." The Hastings grow out 1500 birds to 30kg on about 2 hectares, then rotate the land used. The birds graze pastures and eat silage, hay and grain.

Mature weights of ostriches vary according to the breed. The African Blacks and Australian Greys might be 120-130kg, while the Kenyan Reds and Zimbabwean Blues can reach 150-180kg. "They've all got different traits, so we're trying to maximise the better traits in our breeding program," Michael said.

The birds are processed at Myrtleford Game Meats Company and 95 per cent of the meat is exported to Asia, the US and Europe. Michael has the skins processed at a Wangaratta tannery. The pair also run a shop, The Vault, in the former Winchelsea National Bank of Australia building. Here they sell leather products, including bags, wallets and belts, along with feather bags and dusters. Any infertile eggs are blown and sold for crafts.

RURAL FINANCE



Nalda Park Pastoral Company

Nathan and Penny Craig are a young couple any farming community would love to clone. They are not only committed to their fledgling farming enterprise but also to building the rural community.

The couple operate a sheep and cropping enterprise near Apsley, in the Wimmera. As well as building their farm, adding leased land and building a contracting business and Limousin stud, they are heavily involved in farming groups.

They are members of the South East Prime Lamb Young Achievers, Agri-Links and the Victorian No-Till Farmers Association. Penny also works for Solly Business Services at Naracoorte and is studying for her masters degree in Agricultural Science.

To the Craigs, being involved in such groups is part of running a successful business. "The groups give us a social opportunity in an industry where you tend to not come into contact with a lot of people," Penny said. "It gives us the chance to talk about things, good and bad, that will make our businesses and lives better."

The Craigs work in partnership with Nathan's parents, Bill and Debbie. Their home block, Nalda Park, is 500 hectares and they also lease 900 hectares and manage another 80 hectares.

They run 5500 sheep, including 3000 Merino ewes, of which 1800 are mated to Merinos for a self-replacing flock and 1200 to terminal sires for prime lambs. The family aims to balance the cropping and sheep enterprises equally in terms of time, although a larger area was cropped last year. They also hope to rebuild their ewe numbers to 4000 in the next five years, with half to be mated to Merinos and half to terminal sires.

THE RURAL FINANCE SHEEP PRODUCER OF THE YEAR FINALISTS

Helen Raven

A visit to Helen Raven's farm in southern NSW is a rare treat. Helen, her husband, Rob Sturgess, and daughter, Jess, aim to run the largest commercial flock of Hampshire Downs in Australia on their farm at Henty.

She plans to increase the size of her flock from 110 stud ewes to 300 within the next few years. Helen says heritage sheep can be both attractive and commercially viable. She stumbled across the breed in 2000 while searching for a suitable ram to join to her first-cross ewes. At the time Helen and Rob were living at Coleambally on a 20 hectare irrigation block where they grew lucerne, oats, pumpkins and watermelons and raised cattle, heritage pigs and poultry.

After finding the Hampshire Downs in a book on heritage breeds, Helen bought a purebred ram from a Nagambie breeder to join their first-cross ewes. "I was so impressed with the lambs we decided to buy six purebred ewes. I had the bug well and truly by then," Helen said.

Helen and Rob registered their Jurumbula stud in 2002, but the need for more land prompted a move to the 129 hectare dryland farm at Henty in 2006. Before the move, she sold her Tamworth and Large Black pigs to other breeders, which has enabled her to concentrate on building sheep and cattle numbers.

She conceded she knew little about sheep until taking on the Hampshire Downs breed. "Last year I bought 47 ewes and 40 ewe weaners to build up numbers. With a limited genetic pool, the stud sheep are just so hard to get," Helen said. "I have kept my best 60 ewes for the stud and the rest are run as commercial sheep." Helen sells direct to consumers at the Canberra farmers' market, and plans to introduce a branded boned-out product.

Millring Pastoral

There was never any pressure for Tim Paulet to come home to work on the family farm. He just wanted to. It also provided a succession plan for Tim and his brother, Rowan, to eventually take over the family farm at Toongabbie in Gippsland.

Importantly, the move brought renewed passion and a thirst to apply new technology and ideas. "While Dad holds the reins, they are fairly loose and we get a say in what management decisions are made," Tim said. That they are open to new challenges and direction is a key component to their on-farm success.

While production levels have increased on the 1215ha property over the years, the measure of the Paulets' profit is strictly dollars per hectare. Wool has always been their main enterprise but this now comprises just 25 per cent of the operation, with crops muscling in with 30 per cent, lambs 20 per cent and cattle 25 per cent. They run 6500 superfine Merinos, 350 first-cross ewes, and 150 first-cross ewe lambs on the home property, plus another 450 older Merinos and 1500 first-cross ewes on leased country.

The Paulets' aim is to produce good-quality, sound wool in the 17-19 micron range. "We produce 43 kilograms a hectare of wool now and we want to increase that," Tim said. "Our target is 55 kilograms a hectare."

The family has a spring-lambing enterprise and shears three times a year. The main shearing is in February for all adult sheep. Weaner lambs have their first shearing in June, at 10 months, and their second in April. They then join the main flock in February. Sheep are run on stubble from crops, which helps rest pastures and, as the stubble is clean, it doubles as a worm-resistance management tool. They also clean up any grain.

1 - BANTAM HARDFEATHER O.E.G.

The Old English Game Bantams were good for the winners, but tailed off badly. A lot were out of condition.
The winning Black Reds and Wheatens were very good.
Duckwings were too long in beaks with some good Gingers and Birchens. Trios overall were very poor.

2 - BANTAM HARDFEATHER other than O.E.G.

Australian Game Bantams were few in number, a nice winning female

Indian Game Bantams had a good class of females with very little between 1, 2 & 3 in the hen class.

Jubilee Game Bantams need to be fitter

Modern Game Bantam black red had good numbers in classes, but need to watch leg colour and stance. The winning female a good bird; once again not a lot between 1, 2 & 3 in pullets.

Modern Game Pile bantams; a good class of males

Modern Game A.O.C. Bantams need to be fitter and in better Show condition.

The Indian game Bantam Hen that won Champion Hard Feather Bantam was in my opinion was a very nice and well presented exhibit, and a clear winner in the bantams.

3 - BANTAM SOFTFEATHER LIGHT

Firstly I judged the Ancona females, it was pleasing to see good v-ticking all over. Then I went onto the Japanese Bantams, I found a young cock bird that was in very good feather and showed itself very well. I put it up for Best Bantam Softfeather Light.
Leghorns; I put up a white cockerel for Best Leghorn Bantam, quite a nice fowl; very well presented, but lacked a little bit of lobe which detracted from him slightly. The Black Leghorns I found were getting a bit tired and looked as if they had been shown quite a lot and their combs were starting to turn. Then the Buff Leghorns were a very nice colour and their under colour was very good, and the winning female was the best Buff.
I found in General that a lot of the Leghorn males and females are getting quite big. The female Leghorns also show a tendency to be a bit pale in the face.

4 - BANTAM SOFTFEATHER HEAVY

I would like to thank the Melbourne Royal Agricultural Society for inviting me to judge the Heavy Softfeather Bantams.

Starting with the Australian Langshans, the winning cockerel had a nice type with a lovely green sheen. The winning pullet had a lovely back line and excellent feather quality which become the best Langshan.

It was a pleasure to see a good line-up of Frizzles of all colours. One particular note about the frizzles is to be careful with the feathers being so narrow, and the size of the birds. Next, the Pekins, my winning Pekin was a black Pekin hen which then became the best Bantam Softfeather Heavy, shown in lovely condition and very fresh in the face. There were other good quality Pekins exhibited but they weren't quite in Show condition i.e. pale faces and dried out feathers. Also, one thing I noticed about the Pekins was that the eye colour has started to fade.

The Rhode Island Red Bantams had large numbers which was pleasing to see with the winning cockerel very good in type but needed the tail to be slightly more raised. The winning pullet was also good in body type but suffered the same problem with the tail as the cockerel. The feather condition was very dry on some of the birds.

It was a pleasure to see such a wide range of coloured Wyandottes. Some are lacking in type and eye colour which will need to have more attention paid to breeding. The white Wyandottes were fairly varied in type and size. The best white Wyandotte was a hen which went on to win Reserve Bantam Softfeather Heavy. The white cockerels were poor in type and the winner stood out in the class. The white pullets were out of condition and very dry in the feather quality, also varying in type.

In judging the trios, there was a nice trio of Langshan Bantams which could have been shown in the open class and may have won a place in each of the sections.

5 - STANDARD SOFTFEATHER LIGHT

The Ancona classes were small in numbers and the quality was pretty poor, the winning bird was a hen.
Silver Pencilled Hamburgs was quite a large class; the female was probably the best of the breed.
Black Hamburg cockerels, only three in the class, the winning bird was quite a nice type and well presented.
Pullets were the best, the black being the winner; a nice type and well presented also.
Leghorn blue cockerels, only two in the class and still in need of some improvement. Only one brown Leghorn hen, quite nice but showing her age. Brown cockerels, three in the class, the winner was a nice type and colour and a worthy winner. White Leghorn was Champion Large Leghorn, a very nice type, well presented and a credit to the exhibitor, and went on to win Best Standard Light Softfeather.
Silkies were a fairly mixed lot, the best was well presented and a worthy winner on the day.
The Reserve Standard Softfeather Light was a black Leghorn of very nice type and a worthy winner on the day.

6 - STANDARD HARDFEATHER (GAME)

An excellent line up of large black red and partridge; cocks a little on the heavy side but very alert and in good Show condition. Hens; the winners fit and showing good carriage and angle of back with correct tail set. Cockerels; great line up with the Reserve Champion Bird in Show coming out of this class. Pullets a bit of a mixed bag, as some not fit and just not up to show condition.
Black red light legs; three not bad fowls.
One brown red cockerel, a nice fowl.
Duckwings a good class, males a little savage.
Blue or blue A.O.C; two nice cockerels and an excellent hen. She was my Reserve Champion Large Hardfeather, very fit and showing very good carriage. This is the type of bird we should be striving to breed and Show.

7 - STANDARD SOFTFEATHER HEAVY

I judged the heavy breeds.
First Langshans; winning female of good type.
Australorps; largest section, some showed purple in the feather. Tail coverage was also absent in a few. Winning cockerel and were pullet good examples of the Breed, the cockerel went on to win Best Standard Heavy.
Barnevelders lacked a little in type and lacing.
Light Sussex; good size, but lack condition and wing markings, cockerel was best.
AOC Sussex; still need some work on type.
Wyandottes coloured; again lack size, type and head features; but great to see exhibitors persevering with birds.
White Wyandottes had good presentation and type, but showing signs of a late Show season; also problems with toes rolling. Winning birds in good condition.
Plymouth Rocks a good line up well marked and not much between young males. Females could have been a little larger but well marked. Winning cock went on to be Reserve Large Heavy Softfeather.
Rhode Island: a large class with some good coloured birds but lots of difference in type. Winning cockerel of good type and colour.
Trio classes: Black Australorp, winning two females compliment a very good exhibition male with nice head and tight feathers. All had good tail carriage.
Plymouth Rock again excellent; two females also complimenting the male.

8 - WATERFOWL OR TURKEY

I would like to thank the Royal Agricultural Society of Victoria for the invitation to judge this year. I would also like to thank my two Stewards for making my job a lot easier. It is always a pleasure to Judge in Victoria and the competition is always tough. It was no different today. The first section I had to Judge were the light breeds; there were some very nice birds here, with the best light being a Khaki Campbell young duck. There were some very unlucky birds here, being the young Indian Runner Drake who wouldn't Show when required and the young Elizabeth Drake.
Heavy Breeds were next and it didn't get any easier. Some excellent Pekins, Rouens, Cayugas and Silver Appleyards shown here. My winning bird came from this section.
Bantams were next, and although only small classes they showed well. Some excellent Mallards, Call Ducks, Silver Appleyards and Saxonys were shown. My Reserve bird came from this section.
Only four Geese shown but all nice birds. I also had five Turkeys to Judge with the Old gobbler winning Best Turkey. All in all it was a very hard day, but a very enjoyable one. It was good to catch up with a lot of friends.

9 – JUNIORS

The Junior section far exceed my expectation being equal to the top exhibition we see in Northern New South Wales and Queensland. The Champion Junior In Show being an Australorp Bantam cockerel who was shown to perfection. This exhibit would compete very successfully in the open section at any Royal Show in Australia.
In the Reserve Junior position was a Mallard Duck of excellent type and well conditioned for the Show. The Junior Hardfeather bird being the black red Old English Game Bantam this entry again would be very competitive in open competition. I am a firm believer that all experienced Poultry exhibitors have an obligation to the future of the fancy to start out and encourage more Junior exhibitors. This can only be done successfully by supplying top quality breeding stock to new and novice exhibitors at a nominal fee or free of charge.

10 – EGGS

I am very pleased to be given the position of Judging Eggs at The 2007 Royal Melbourne Show and I was very pleased with the number of Exhibits on Show.

I found on a whole the exhibits were quite good, but I feel that people should, if possible, put a bit more effort into the shape of the exhibit as it is very difficult to find in a plate of six eggs, six that are of the same shape. As well as this the colour of every exhibit, should be the same colour.

The colour of an egg of each variety is of much importance in making the winning selection. I found today that I was very impressed with the Turkey egg which received Champion Egg of Show. The Land fowl was the best of the rest and were matched very well in colour and shape.

Again I would like thank those responsible for selecting me to Judge

INTRODUCTION

The Royal Agricultural Society of Victoria (RASV) is delighted to announce the results of the 2007 RASV Prime Lamb Carcase Competition.

It is fitting that these results can be announced in partnership with MLA, given their ongoing support of the Prime Lamb Carcase program. We acknowledge the efforts of the organising committee of the Kyneton Meat Profit Day, and extend our congratulations on delivering a successful forum for the red meat industry.

The RASV is extremely grateful to our principal partners in the program, Castricum Brothers of Dandenong, for their services and continued commitment to the delivery of this important industry-relevant awards program.

We also acknowledge the ongoing sponsorship and support from The Weekly Times.

Through this program, competition entrants have consigned more than 75,000 lambs to Castricum Brothers for inclusion in this competition since 2002. This is an outstanding improvement from its predecessor, which was a Pen of Three competition at the Royal Melbourne Show. The current model, which requires a minimum consignment of 200 lambs, is a more accurate representation of industry standards and practice.

The Prime Lamb Carcase Competition is just one of a suite of awards, competitions and benchmarking programs at the RASV, which includes The Weekly Times Farm Business Awards and the Genetics Australia Share Dairy Farmer Awards, to name a few.

We thank those acknowledged in this catalogue for their support of this program, congratulate the winners and placegetters on their outstanding achievements and wish all participants continued success.

Regards

Mark O'Sullivan
Chief Executive Officer
The Royal Agricultural Society of Victoria Limited

COMPETITION OVERVIEW

The RASV Prime Lamb Carcase Competition was conducted for the sixth time in 2007, with entries and standards again eclipsing those of previous years. The program has come a long way since its inception in 2002 when it had 17 entries with just over 4,400 lambs judged. This year's competition saw 59 consignments assessed, comprising over 19,000 lambs from across Victoria, South Australia and New South Wales.

The Prime Lamb Carcase Competition provides producers with the opportunity to benchmark their operations against other producers and industry standards. The program promotes Australian prime lamb production of an export standard by rewarding heavier lambs which carry a high yield of lean meat. The commercial focus of the competition enables entrants to benchmark their performance and make future management decisions accordingly.

Entry to the competition requires consignments to be at least 200 lambs and within the 20-30kg carcase weight range. These consignments are processed at Castricum Brothers abattoir in Dandenong and assessed using the Australian-developed electronic carcase evaluation system, VIAscan.

VIAscan enables the distinction between lambs with comparatively more meat than lambs of the same weight that are fattier and lower yielding. Measurements are achieved through assessing the lean meat yield based on carcase weight, loin content, estimated fat depth and distribution through video image analysis. This presents VIAscan as a relevant and valuable source of information for producers in performance evaluation where weight and leanness drive dollar returns for lamb producers selling over-the-hooks. Outstanding carcases will achieve both high carcase weight and lean meat yield and are rewarded due to the high processing efficiency they present.

Par value is used to cost carcases and is issued on a per kg basis. Using a grid system which incorporates Carcase Weight, Lean Meat Yield (%) and adjustments for above average Meat Yield scores, carcases are either determined to be discount, at par value or premium. Discounts and premiums are kept constant and issued plus or minus $0.20/kg based on par value. For instance, if par value is $3.46/kg and a carcase is deemed to warrant premium from the grid system, the carcase will be valued at $3.66/kg. Par value is not a fixed price and can vary depending on the time of year or season.

After all carcases in a consignment have been categorised as discount, par value or premium, the average price per carcase is determined. The average price per carcase is drawn from the total amount paid for all carcases (taking into account premiums and discounts) and then divided by the total consignment size. This average price per carcase is then compared with the standard over-the-hooks payment and is referred to as the 'Over the Hooks Comparison'. The difference between these two values is the total premium return per carcase.

The consignment with the highest premium return per carcase above the standard over-the-hooks quote is designated the winner of the RASV Prime Lamb Carcase Competition.

RESULTS

The correlation shown in Figure 2.1 (above) between Carcase Weight (kg) and Lean Meat Yield (%) is moderate. As Carcase Weight increases, the percentage of Lean Meat Yield tends to decrease. This is because carcases that are heavier are usually also fattier and it is the fat that provides the extra weight.

The winning consignment attained the highest Lean Meat Yield percentage relative to its high Carcase Weight and was therefore rewarded by the grid system which awards premiums over par value based on heavier Carcase Weights (kg) and higher Lean Meat Yield (%).

The above figure demonstrates that there is little to no correlation directly between Carcase Weight (kg) and the Premium (c/kg) assigned to the consignments. It is a misconception that heavier carcases will always attract a higher c/kg premium and the wide data spread supports this. As carcases get heavier they may also be fattier which reduces their value on a c/kg basis, as fat has to be trimmed resulting in discounts from par value. The winning consignment exhibits a premium much greater than others within the same weight range, indicating that although it is heavier it is comprised of a greater percentage of lean meat.

The winning consignment received a premium of 17 c/kg and a Lean Meat Yield of 14.7 kg. It bettered the premiums received by other consignments because it was comparatively higher yielding. The consignments below the trend line attained a lower premium as the percentage of Lean Meat Yield per kilogram of Carcase Weight was relatively low.

COMPARATIVE RESULTS FROM 2006

While in general heavy carcases will earn more for everybody in the chain, it is much better to have heavy carcases that contain maximum saleable product. More money is earned from a lean heavy carcase than a heavy carcase with a higher percentage of fat.

The 2006 results show an increase in carcase quality from 2005 with the overall winner being a clear cut above the rest. In comparison, the 2007 winner had an even higher average carcase weight than that achieved in 2005 or 2006.

Results of the 2005 Competition are presented in Figures 4.1 to 4.4.

Table 1.2 Data comparison of consignments from 2005, 2006 & 2007

Average	Carcase Weight	Lean Meat Yield		Premium per Carcase ($)	Premium
	kg	%	kg		c/kg
2007	24.66	54.8%	13.5	$2.64	$0.11
2006	24.11	55.1%	13.3	$2.61	$0.11
2005	23.76	54.8%	13.0	$2.12	$0.09

While the Lean Meat Yield has not experienced significant growth over the last three years of the competition, there has been a clear increase in average carcase weight. Producers are averaging a consistently higher carcase weight while still maintaining the lean meat yield percentage. This in turn is incurring an increase in the average premium per carcase without requiring a great deal of change to the premium per kg.
