HORNSBY SHEAF BINDER,

THE MOST SUCCESSFUL MACHINE IN THE WORLD!

ELEVEN FIRST PRIZES won in the Australian Colonies alone during 1884, all at Field Trials, and not, as some of our American friends are boasting, in Show Grounds, where the Machines could not be tested. The Hornsby is far and away the strongest and most substantial machine in the market. The Hornsby is the simplest, cuts the closest, and is without doubt the best machine for the Australian farmer.

REMEMBER, it was the 1884 Machine which won the Eleven First Prizes; the 1885 Machine is still further improved. The demand for the Hornsby Binder last Season was so great that, unlike our American friends, who have large stocks of last season's machines still on hand, we are able to offer the improved Machines made this year.

FARMERS,

NOTES.—ALVIE'S FLOWER DUKE 3RD.

Alvie's Flower Duke 3rd took second prize as three-year-old bull at the National Agricultural Society's Show, 1884.

Duke of Alvie has proved himself to be a sire of undoubted excellence, his progeny in New Zealand being most successful in the show-rings of that colony. At the Canterbury Agricultural and Pastoral Association's Show, held at Christchurch, in 1882, fourteen prizes were gained by animals purchased from, or descended from the Bundoora Herd, as well as the champion prize for females; in 1883 they were equally successful, thirteen prizes, as well as the championship for bulls, being gained by them; and at the late show, held in November this year (1884) they gained eighteen prizes, together with the championship for both males and females. Most of these animals are descended on one side from Duke of Alvie, and some possess two strains of his blood. The Duke of Alvie has been a most successful prize-taker himself. No later than in 1883 he took first prize as best aged bull, and champion prize as best bull exhibited, at the National Agricultural Society's Show in

The sire of Duke of Alvie, Duke of Brunswick (25,937,) is now so well known to shorthorn breeders, both by the numerous champion prizes his progeny have obtained in all the principal show-yards of the Australian colonies, and the high price they invariably make when submitted to public competition in the sale ring, that any comment about him is unnecessary, and his blood is still held in the greatest esteem both in New South Wales and Victoria.

Duchess of Brunswick has taken four first prizes, and is also the dam of Cherry Oxford's Brunswick, awarded first prize at Victoria Agricultural Society's Show, Heidelberg, 1877; and first prize at the Grand National Show, Stawell, in the two-year-old class; and sold at Mr. Gardiner's 1878 sale for 800 guineas to Mr. J. NOTES.—ALVIE'S FLOWER DUKE 6TH.

Duke of Alvie has proved himself to be a sire of undoubted excellence, his progeny in New Zealand being most successful in the show-rings of that colony. At the Canterbury Agricultural and Pastoral Association's Show, held at Christchurch in 1882, fourteen prizes were gained by animals purchased from, or descended from, the Bundoora Herd, as well as the champion prize for females; in 1883 they were equally successful, thirteen prizes, as well as the championship for bulls, being gained by them; and at the late show, held in November this year (1884,) they gained eighteen prizes, together with the championship for both males and females. Most of these animals are descended on one side from Duke of Alvie, and some possess two strains of his blood. The Duke of Alvie has been a most successful prize-taker himself. No later than in 1883 he took first prize as best aged bull, and champion prize as best bull exhibited, at the National Agricultural Society's Show in that year, he being over nine years old at that time. He has also been awarded the following prizes:—First in his class at the National Agricultural Society's Show, Melbourne, 1879; and first in his class, and the champion gold medal as the best shorthorn bull exhibited, at the National Agricultural Society's Show, Melbourne, 1878; first prize and championship at the Grand National Show, held at Geelong, 1878; first and champion at the Victoria Agricultural Show, Heidelberg, 1878; first prize at the National Agricultural Society's Show, 1877, in the largest class of aged bulls ever exhibited in the colony; first in his class, and champion prize as the best male animal in the show-yards, at the Grand National held at Stawell, 1877; first prize and champion at the Victoria Agricultural Society's Show, Heidelberg, 1877; first prize at the Grand National, Sandhurst, 1876; first prize at the National Agricultural Society's Show, Melbourne, 1876; first prize at Grand National, Talbot, 1875. His dam is also the dam of 2nd Duke of Alvie, first prize-taker at the National Agricultural Show, 1876; and first at the Sydney Exhibition, 1877, and afterwards sold for 1000 guineas.

The sire of Duke of Alvie, Duke of Brunswick (25,937,) is now so well known to shorthorn breeders, both by the numerous champion prizes his progeny have obtained in all the principal show-yards of the Australian colonies, and the high price they invariably make when submitted to public competition in the sale ring, that any comment about him is unnecessary, and his blood is still held in the greatest esteem both in New South Wales and Victoria.

Duchess of Brunswick has taken four first prizes, and is also the dam of Cherry Oxford's Brunswick, awarded first prize at Victoria Agricultural Society's Show, Heidelberg, 1877; and first at the Grand National Show, Stawell, in the two-year-old class, and sold at Mr. Gardiner's 1878 sale for 800 guineas to Mr. J. Eales, New South Wales. She is also the dam of Oxford's Duke
