Welcome

Richard McGarvie,
Governor of Victoria

Melbourne Showtime brings to our minds a picture of welcome warmth, beauty and abundant growth of Victoria in early Spring. As Governor and patron of the Royal Agricultural Society of Victoria, I welcome everyone to the 138th Royal Melbourne Show.

The Show puts the finest of country Victoria in the spotlight. More people are discovering the fun and excitement which is the Royal Melbourne Show. Each year an estimated 1.5 million people flock through the Showgrounds, visiting either the Royal Show or the host of other year-round events staged at the venue by the Royal Agricultural Society.

And while much of the Show's public attraction lies in tradition, the Society is working hard to ensure the event moves in step with community needs so that future generations continue to catch a glimpse of what life outside the city's boundaries is really like.

My wife and I visit most parts of regional Victoria. New initiatives to continue its contribution to our culture are impressive. We can all see that at the Show.

We issue an open invitation to our Open Day to view Government House and grounds on Australia Day, January 26, 1997, 10am to 4pm — no charge.

Jeff Kennett,
The Premier of Victoria

Victorians will once again have the opportunity to experience a showcase of what's best in Victoria at the 1996 Royal Melbourne Show. As one of Melbourne's most popular events, the Show provides a perfect opportunity to promote the variety, quality and excellence of Victorian-produced goods to hundreds of thousands of people. Our rural communities are significant contributors to ensuring Victoria is a prosperous and secure place for the 21st century.

Through the application of technology in adding value to raw commodities, we are developing products that suit the palates and needs of customers in under-exploited markets throughout Asia and the Pacific.

The Royal Melbourne Show is an important stage for the promotion of these products, both nationally and internationally.

It is a showcase of our skill and determination and a belief that we must be the best at what we do. Enjoy the experience of the Royal Melbourne Show — it is second to none.

J.Keith Buchanan,
president,
Royal Agricultural Society of Victoria Limited

Welcome to this year's Royal Melbourne Show.

We are continuing to improve our facilities to make time at the Show more rewarding and enjoyable than ever. With our admission price at the same level for the last five years, we believe Showtime represents a day of great value for the entire family.

You will be aware of a number of changes which I'm sure will appeal to most people. Showtime heralds the unveiling of the Society's flagship — the new Showgrounds Exhibition Centre — which will accommodate over 17 corporate exhibitors including the Victorian Government Display and a range of family entertainment.

And for the first time at any Royal Show in Australia, a wide range of companion animals will be on display in a special, communal area providing easy and friendly access to animals for children, family groups and other Show visitors.

Nearly half a hectare of the Showgrounds — close to the railway station entrance — will be converted into IAMS Wonderful World of Pets, adjoining the Dog Pavilion. The precinct includes dogs, cats, guinea pigs, cage birds, tropical fish, goldfish and other companion creatures.

We will, of course have our usual magnificent display of Australia's livestock equal to anything in the world showcased via the Rural Finance Corporation Grand Parades. Feature breeds of livestock include Angus beef and Ayrshire dairy cattle while the feature sheep breed is Hampshire Down.

Our Show Ambassadors will be constantly moving around the Showgrounds to help patrons find their way through the multitude of exhibits and entertainment. They will be distinctly dressed thanks to K. Ritchie Riding Apparel in red Akubras, moleskin trousers and red Drizabone jackets.

The Society is bringing more of the country back to the Show and will continue to do that. We aim to give you all a better facility, make you feel more welcome than ever before, and send you away wanting to come back every year for another great event.

Have a happy Show and a great time here this year.

Stars on show for everyone

THE 1996 Royal Melbourne Show has this year gone to the dogs... and the cows, cats, chooks, horses, sheep and alpacas and just about anything else with wings, four legs and fur!

At Showtime between September 19 and 29, patrons will for the first time in Australia see the new IAMS Wonderful World of Pets.

The exposition of companion animals — which covers nearly a hectare — gives patrons a close-up look at dogs, cats, guinea pigs, cage birds, tropical fish, goldfish, even snakes and ferrets!

The IAMS Wonderful World of Pets links another Showtime innovation for 1996, the Streets Walk to the Animals.

This walk around the Showgrounds — clearly marked with paw prints painted on walkways — visits special interactive animal attractions like the National Australia Bank Animal Nursery, VDIA's Nature's Way (animal birthing centre), Pigs and People display, Farrier's Forge plus the return of the live milking display presented by Barry Brown & Sons.

Show food now includes a fancy twist. Thanks to Michael O'Brien Catering, patrons can indulge in a celebration of food centring on a new sidewalk cafe, based in the heart of the Showgrounds offering prize-winning produce like beef and lamb, pasta from prize-winning grain, cheeses and other dairy products, wine and of course beer.

Horticulture has become an exciting

Innovation and animals are a feature of this year's bumper Royal Melbourne Show, to be held from September 19 to 29.

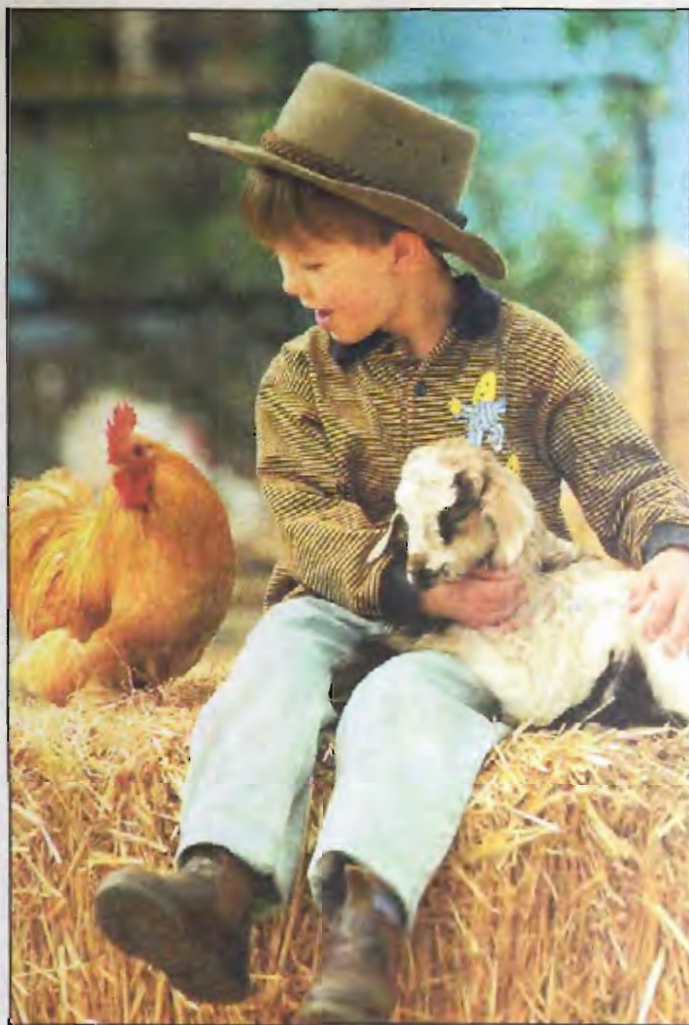

feature of the show. This year will see the return of the floral clock and a bigger line up of exhibitors in the Horticulture Pavilion sponsored by Coles.

Lovers of four-legged friends will have plenty to see at this year's Royal Melbourne Show with a huge number of sheep, cattle and horses on display at the Showgrounds.

This year the stakes are higher than ever on the main arena where visitors can see for themselves why Australian farmers are world-renowned genetic trailblazers.

Once again the Showgrounds provides a forum for the best beef and dairy cattle the country has to offer.

Despite tough economic times in the beef market, breeders have thrown their support behind the Show to record an increase in beef cattle entries — the only Royal event to do so this year. A total of 1198 cattle have been entered — 96 more than 1995. Angus cattle will be the Show's feature beef breed for this year. Organisers say a total of 139 animals will contest the broad ribbons. In another Show first, junior and senior champion broad ribbon winners from this year's Sydney and Canberra

Royals have been invited to compete at Melbourne. Many beef and dairy cattle classes will be decided by a star line-up of local and international judges. The prestigious steer and carcass competition has a huge following. This year almost 270 purebred and crossbred entries have been received. Judging of animals on the hoof will take place on Tuesday, September 24,

Admission: Adults $12, Children (5-14) $6; Concession $9; Family (2 adults/2 children) $30 with carcasses hung up for inspection on Friday, September 27, at Gilbertson's in Altona North.
First 2 Days (Sept 19-20) flat $6 entry.

The main arena also plays host to judging of Australia's top bloodstock. Whether it's show jumping or dressage, Clydesdales, thoroughbreds or ponies, the Show has every horse passion covered.

More than 5000 have been entered in 1996 classes including the biggest Clydesdale showing in the southern hemisphere, stock horses, ponies and harness categories, all to be judged in the main arena.

A highlight on the equine Show schedule is the Garryowen — hailed as Australia's top royal equestrienne event. This will take place on Friday, September 20, starting 9am.

Another horse crowd favorite is the Clydesdales, and this year they will be on display on Thursday, September 19.

Horse jumping will also be judged, with the Prince of Wales Cup taking place on Wednesday, September 25, at 7pm.

Twenty breeds of sheep will also grace the Royal Show Pavilions from Saturday, September 21, to Friday, September 27. The feature sheep breed this year is the Hampshire Down, to be judged on Thursday, September 26.

Overall, some 32,000 competitive entries are made to the Royal Melbourne Show covering 23 categories and thousands of different breeds of animals.

Showtime represents a celebration of the entire food chain from paddock to plate, plus a perfect opportunity for metropolitan business and families to learn about rural issues.

The Met gives everyone the chance to be a winner at the Show.

Winning a Thomas the Tank Engine prize is as easy as catching the Met.

All you have to do is take the train to the Show. Each Show admission ticket purchased from your Met or V/Line station comes with a Thomas the Tank Engine entry form which will put you in the running for $1000 worth of fantastic Thomas the Tank Engine prizes.

And you could win the adventure of a lifetime!

A ride on the specially decorated Show Train from Flinders St can win you one of our daily adventure prizes and also puts you in the draw for an adventure holiday to New Zealand. All you have to do is catch the special Show Train which leaves approximately every 30 minutes, pick up a Show Train entry form on board and then follow the IAMS paw prints to the Triple M and Victoria Police stands and IAMS Wonderful World of Pets at the Showgrounds.

Our frequent services make getting to the Show easy.

Trains depart Flinders St platforms 8 and 9 at approximately 7 minute intervals from 8.45am each day of the Show. And tram routes 54, 57, 58 and 60 will have extra services between the city and the Showgrounds. For more info call The Met on 131 638.

Wonderful world of pets

A UNIQUE "pet world" will be established at the Royal Melbourne Show this year, adding a spectacular feature which is expected to attract thousands of visitors each day.

For the first time at any Royal Show in Australia, a wide range of companion animals will be on display in a special, communal area providing easy and friendly access to animals for children, family groups and other Show visitors.

The IAMS Wonderful World of Pets includes dogs, cats, guinea pigs, cage birds, tropical fish, goldfish and other companion creatures.

Nearly half a hectare of the Showgrounds — close to the railway station entrance — will be converted into IAMS Wonderful World of Pets, adjoining the Dog Pavilion.

The exhibit is part of a new Show feature, the Streets Walk to the Animals, which links other interactive attractions like the Animal Nursery, Nature's Way, Live Milking Display, Pigs n' People and the Farrier's Forge, and the World of Horses.

Place to pat the animals

A HUGE mural depicting children's views of farm animals will be a feature of the Show's ever-popular National Australia Bank Animal Nursery.

The mural was created by Red Hill Consolidated School students and spans the length of the nursery which focuses on interaction and education.

The nursery is managed by Paul and Maree Jamieson, who, when not at the Show, take their mobile farm around Victoria on behalf of the Royal Agricultural Society of Victoria to kids of the human kind.

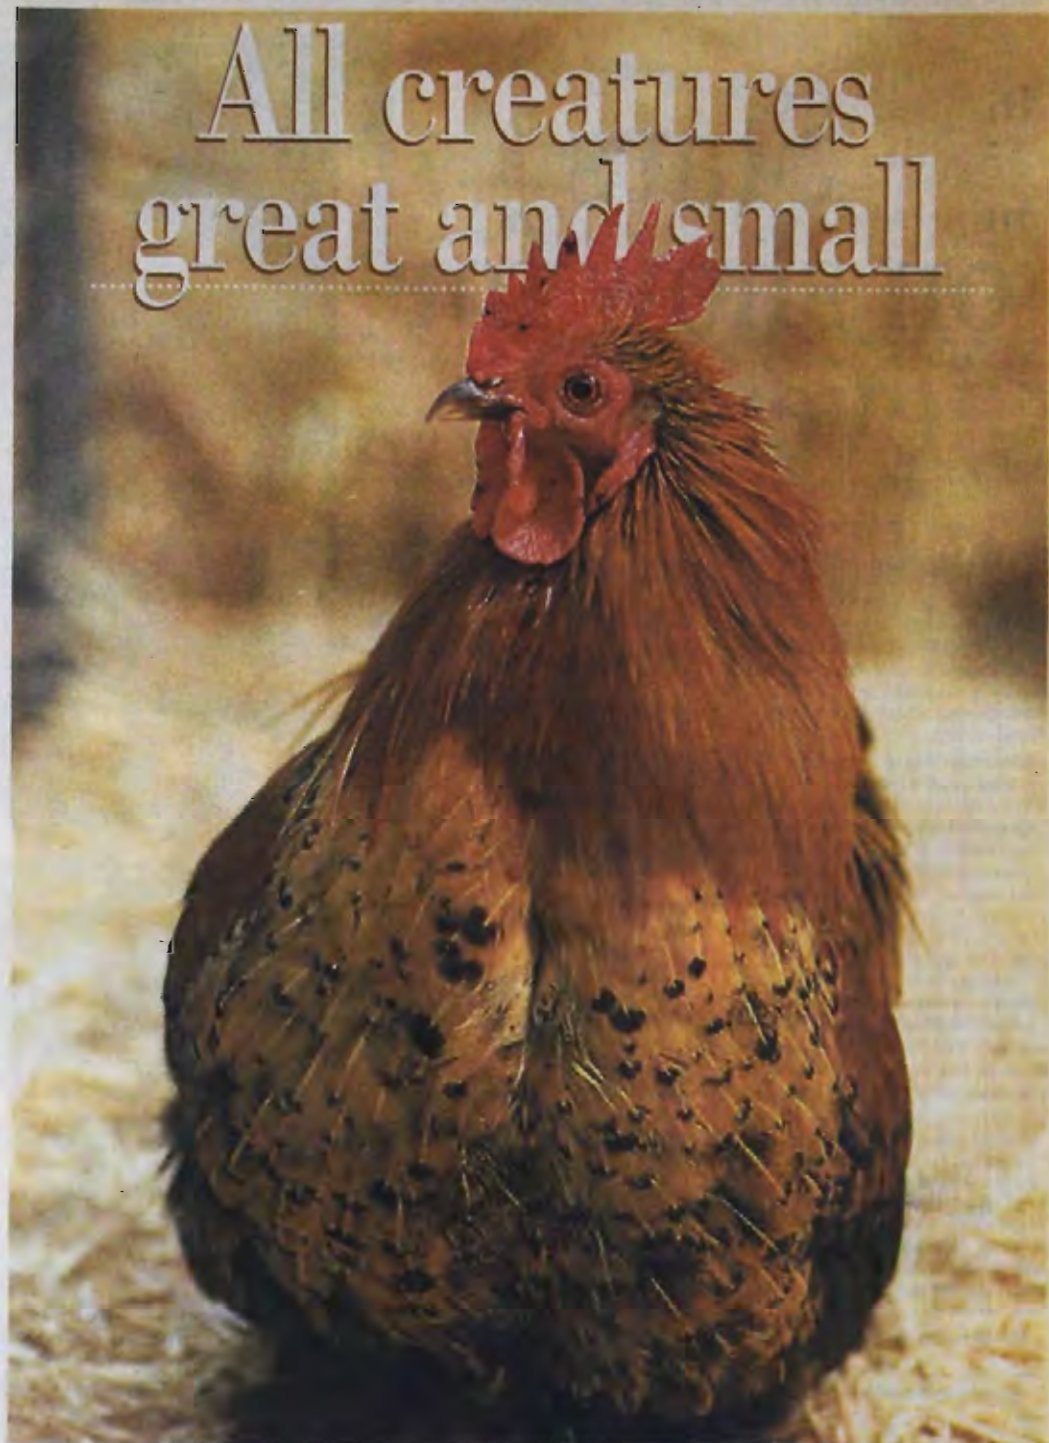

The display takes on a farmyard facade, complete with "patting" paddocks, fences, trees and sheds.

The animal nursery also sends messages to the public on how farmers care for their animals and the responsibilities of owning a living creature.

"Kids want to do something, participate. If they wanted to just look at things all the time, they'd stay at home and watch television," Paul said.

"The nursery gives children the opportunity to hear for themselves how loud a rooster calls, a pig grunts and feel how soft a chick is, how rough a sheep can feel and how heavy a lamb really is."

"None of these things can be learned from TV."

All creatures great and small

See an animal give birth

NATURE'S Way at the Show gives children a first-hand look at how the next generation of farm animals arrive at the paddock gate.

The exhibit is proudly sponsored by the Victorian Dairy Industry Authority and staffed by livestock industry experts from Agriculture Victoria who not only care for the animals but answer the often curly questions of a young (and not so young!) mind on Mother Nature's magic.

Birthing is the focus of Nature's Way this year with both sheep and cows actually giving birth inside the exhibit.

Experienced staff from Agriculture Victoria provide commentary and explanations of all the wonder nature has to offer.

This includes many fascinating facts about farm animals and post and pre-natal care.

Visitors of all ages will miss none of the birthing action offered by Nature's Way via a tiered seating arrangement.

But for those not lucky enough to see an actual birth, there will be plenty of footage on video monitors to watch.

So whether you're young or young at heart, enjoy a visit to Nature's Way where the farm animal kingdom meets the public.

Live milking display

DID you know in Australia there are four breeds of dairy cows which all produce the same milk? Patrons will be able to see this dairy wonder inside the Nature's Way Exhibit. Cows will be milked on the hour between 11am-4pm, with the "fruits" of their labor being collected just like in a real dairy by equipment courtesy of Barry Brown and Sons.

Discover 25,000 animals

The Streets Paddlepop Walk To The Animals is a new attraction for patrons at this year's Show.

The walk makes it easy for parents and kids to discover some of the 25,000 animals that can be found at the Show.

The walk was created in response to research proving that animals time and again are one of the most popular Showtime attractions.

And whether its dogs, cats, ferrets or pigs, you'll be sure to find them all at this year's Show.

All you have to do is follow the paw prints painted on the footpath around the Showgrounds.

The Streets Paddlepop Walk to the Animals links the Showground's new birthing centre — where visitors may catch a glimpse of cows and sheep giving birth — Animal Nursery, Pigs & People, the Farrier's Forge, the World of Horses and another first for the Royal Melbourne Show, the IAMS Wonderful World of Pets.

The IAMS Wonderful World of Pets will be the first time any Royal Show in Australia has brought together companion animals providing easy and friendly access for children, family groups and other visitors.

* Maps on how to navigate the walk can be found at any information booth or Show Ambassador. Children are invited to vie for daily prizes by completing four simple questions included on the map to enter a daily competition drawn by the Streets Paddlepop Lion on the Streets Lawn (Map ref: F4) at 4.30pm.

Hey, Babe!

People attending this year have the opportunity to see an international award-winning display when they visit the Pigs 'n' People exhibit. (Map Ref B4)

Aimed at developing a higher profile for the pig industry, Pigs 'n' People has gained momentum during its four years at the Show, culminating in being awarded the gold medal for best international "special agricultural educational event" for the showgoing public in 1995.

The pig industry — through the Australian Pork Corporation and the Pig Research and Development Corporation — and the Royal Agricultural Society of Victoria and Agriculture Victoria — are proud to continue the Pigs & People display where city and country folk can learn about the high-tech side of pig production and the intelligent behaviour of pigs.

Each day of the Show, Pigs 'n' People will present the four most popular breeds of pigs in Australia and outline their relevance to the industry.

After this session, the pigs make their way to an enclosure where they can shower and drink to cool off as pigs cannot sweat — despite the common saying "sweating like a pig".

Adults and children will also have the opportunity to pat a pig in complete safety and see how a sow looks after her litter, which can be up to 20 piglets.

Kids are special guests at the Pigs 'n' People display, where they have a VIP lounge so they will not miss a piece of the action.

Visitors also have the chance to speak candidly to some of the industry's leading players.

SAMPLE BAG ONLY AT THE VITAL STAND BENEATH THE "PIE IN THE SKY"

Snack-tracking is the way to healthy eating at this year's Royal Show — and it's fun.

Snack-tracking is a showtime tradition. Kids from eight months to 80 follow the Yellow Brick Road around the Melbourne showgrounds, filling a calico showbag with healthy goodies from participating exhibitors.

The re-usable showbags are bought for $7 from The Weekly Times General Store, directly opposite Centenary Hall, or at three starting points: near the Government Expo building inside the main gates, adjacent to the dairy pavilion at the railway station entrance and inside the Flemington Racecourse entrance.

With the showbag, you get a route map, which is the all-important key to collection.

For those who have taken part in previous years, just front up with your old bag and pay only $6.50 to have it stamped for this year's event and collect the map.

Begin from one of the three bright yellow starting points near the major entry gates or at The Weekly Times stand.

Follow the yellow bricks painted on the roadways around the showgrounds, making sure you stop at all participating exhibitors.

Each exhibitor will be identified by a flashing sign.

Present your map and receive products ranging from fruit juices, frozen yoghurt to fresh fruit. Collect them in your bag or, if the temptation is too great, consume them straight away.

The tasty treats include fresh fruity Fruche from the Girl Guides of Victoria stand, Kraft "DiG its" from Video Aided Learning in the big new showgrounds hall, and Indo Mie noodles from the meat pavilion.

Other delights included Sunbeam sultanas from the Australian Dried Fruits and Pear Growers, Murray Valley oranges from the Sunraysia District Council and Sebago Chats potatoes from the Gippsland Potato Growers and Melbourne Markets Authority.

New treats for the taste buds

The Show is not only a showcase for animals and events — it is also setting the pace with excellence in food. This year, there is a treat for everyone

SOGGY chips, leekworm pies and deoupy hot dogs are things of the past at the Royal Melbourne Show. Excellence in food, whether from a take-away stand, bistro or dining area is an important part of Showtime.

So when at the Show, let your taste buds do the walking because there's a healthy treat to suit everyone.

Thanks to Michael O'Brien Catering, for the first time patrons can choose from some of the finest foods available in Victoria at take-away outlets — including beef, lamb, pasta, popular ethnic styles such as Asian, Italian and Greek, fine-cooked fish and chips, and a quality range of pies and sausages in a roll.

Michael O'Brien will also operate the popular Showtime eatery, the Royal Cafe and Shop, where winning entries from the Show's baking, wine and cheese classes can be sampled.

Next to the Animal Nursery is the Showfood mecca, The Paddock to Plate Pavilion where organisations like the Heart Foundation/Gas and Fuel demonstration will have their kitchens preparing a host of healthy, delicious foods.

Other occupants of the pavilion include Johnny Ribera (famous for fish and chips), the Wallace Concessory, Schwob's Bakery, Bow's Natural Icecream, and the Asian Chopstick Affair.

Opposite the Mitchell Stand, visitors can sample some multicultural cuisine in the International Food Square where the best of African, Asian, Indian and Australian bush tucker will be on offer.

And nearby rock and rollers can relive the '50s era at a diner decked out, set like "Arnolds" of television's Happy Days fame.

Inside the Mitchell Stand, patrons will find acclaimed Asian restaurateur Roy Lim as well as the Sandwich wife and a variety of coffee shops.

Walter Burke will bring his famous Walter's Wine Bar to the Garryowen Room, while those with a more outdoor taste can enjoy the picnic atmosphere downstairs in the PB Remold Pavilion where the Best of the Land display will have gourmet delights such as sabbey pate, honey nuts, wine and cheese attempt the tastebuds.

Pavilions: the inside story

Tantalising the tastebuds

THE creation of quick and tasty meat cuisine will take centre stage in the Meat Promotions Centre (Map ref F3) during Showtime this year.

With cooking demonstrations and tastings daily, anybody interested in meat and how it should be prepared and cooked cannot afford to miss the hive of snell-good activity.

Melbourne's top butchers will be on hand, plying their trade and demonstrating the latest in meat cuts while our very own Sausage King will be crowned for his or her best display of snags.

There will even be an old-style butcher shop window so people can see how the industry has changed during the years.

Experts chosen by the Australian Meat and Livestock Corporation will prepare beef and lamb every day of Show, emphasising the theme "quick meals with quality meat."

The National Meat Association will be in the Centre, providing information on its latest initiative for meat retailers - the Q Award. This is a quality assurance system the NMA has developed for butchers.

Commercial Wholesale Butchers will present an array of innovative meat cuts for sale.

The Australian Pork Association has also joined the centre's ranks alongside Australia's biggest Asian grocery importer, Oriental Merchant Pty Ltd.

Natural fashions

THE flexibility and flair of natural fibres will be on show in Centenary Hall's Australian Country Style magazine presentation.

It will be a glamorous occasion thanks to Australian Country Style magazine and Highpoint with fashion parades four times daily (noon, 1pm, 3pm and 4pm) in Centenary Hall.

Garments gracing the catwalk are made in Australia from natural fibres like wool and cotton.

Shearing

THE sheep themselves have not been forgotten and will again star in Centenary Hall's ever popular shearing competitions.

This year sees an entirely new format to the shearing competition, to be conducted on Saturday, September 28, and Sunday, September 29.

Twelve shearers have been invited to shear each day, competing in three heats. Competitors are given a time limit to shear a set number of sheep and lose points for wool left on or cuts to the animals. And it is not just speed which is important. Careful shearing means better quality fleeces, which means better returns for the farmer.

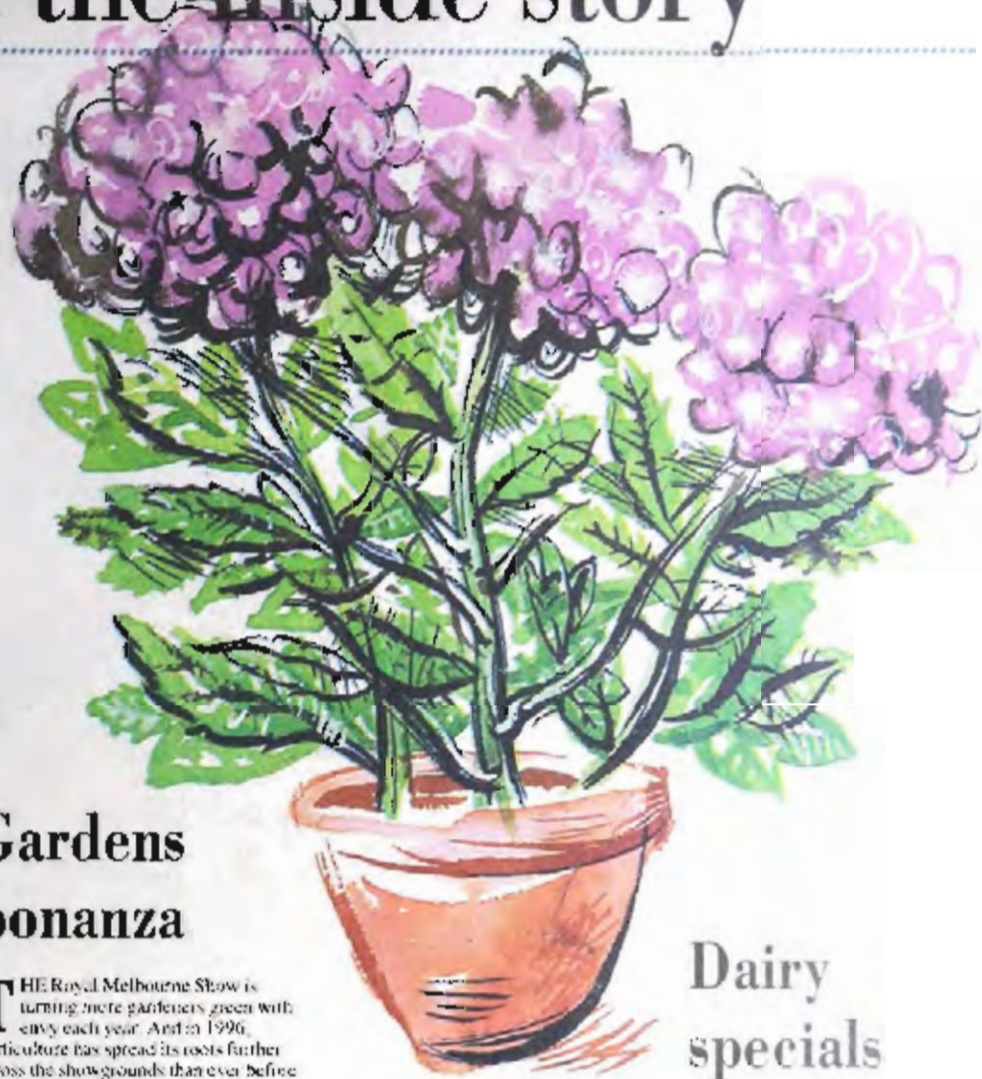

Daily demonstrations between 11am and 4pm will be staged hourly during the Show before the competitors start.

Fleece

EVERY aspect of the sheep industry is scrutinised at the Royal Melbourne Show. The Fleece awards attract a wide range of entries from woolgrowers keen to see how their fibre matches up against the competition benchmark.

Judging is completed before fleeces are displayed during the Show in Centenary Hall. Fleeces are assessed for their trueness to type, length, soundness, handle, color or bloom, character, density, evenness and clean fibre content.

The Polwarth Sheepbreeders' Association of Australia (Victoria branch) is also offering prizes for the breed's best fleece while the Henry W Hopkins Memorial Award will be presented to the best first-time exhibitor. A special section also determines the best of winners of district (VASA) agricultural shows.

Gardens bonanza

THE Royal Melbourne Show is turning more gardeners green with every year. And in 1996, horticulture has spread its roots further across the showgrounds than ever before with more space dedicated for commercial purposes and the reintroduction of competitions.

The Royal Melbourne Show provides the only opportunity for Victorians to see extensive displays of spring flowers, fruit and vegetables.

The Horticulture Pavilion sponsored by Coles and brought together by renowned floral artist, Keith Wood, this year boasts the theme A Kaleidoscope of Color.

Inside, patrons will see three majestic central easels colorfully decorated to reflect the nature of the stands around them like cut flowers, general gardening or fruit and vegetables.

The pavilion's western end will be dedicated to fruit and vegetables, while the centre section will offer a plethora of garden-related products. The eastern end of the pavilion will be dominated by flowers.

This year sees the reintroduction of the Floral Design Competition in an area decorated with fresh spring flowers.

Entrants in the Coles Floral Design Competition are invited to design a colorful display to promote an event or category of this year's Royal Melbourne Show. First prize will be $1000.

Floral clock

THE Floral Clock makes an historic return to the Royal Melbourne Show.

The Engineering Department of the Victoria University of Technology in conjunction with the society is recreating the floral clock first seen at the showgrounds in 1935.

The clock (Map Ref G3) remained in view until shortly after World War II and briefly returned in 1965.

Florets will cover almost every surface of the clock - more than six metres in diameter.

Other than the obligatory minute and hour hands, it is the world's only floral clock to include a second hand.

All three will brim with growing flowers and moss at Showtime.

But the clock is much more than a pretty face. In addition to keeping accurate time, the clock strikes the hour and half hour and sprays itself at regular intervals.

Healthy harvest

VISITORS to the Meadow Lea Harvest Hall can get an idea of the breadth of Australia's agricultural industry and see the value-added everyday food items resulting from our farmers' labor.

Harvest Hall offers a variety of fresh and processed produce - or ideal retreat when the kids are hungry after hours of Showtime fun.

All your questions on healthy eating can be answered by Nutrition Victoria experts as part of its display inside the Hall.

Patrons can pick up brochures on nutrition, also or choose from many Nutrition Victoria endorsed cookbooks on sale.

Meadow Lea's award-winning, healthy and sensible eating theme will be prominent in its range of healthy product and showbags.

Other cookbooks on show at the Hall include:

Tip Top: Six bakers making fresh rolls and breadsticks daily.

Rice Board of Australia: Arguably the world's best energy source is the humble rice grain. See and taste rice dishes prepared in the hall while picking up tips on how to cook delicious dishes at home.

Victorian Apiculturists Association: Don't miss a display of Victoria's best queen bee plus a plethora of beehives, different kinds of honey and enticements to the bees (an old English-style alcoholic drink of honey and yeast) can remain.

Dairy specials

THE dairy industry has been riding the crest of a wave in recent years making many advances in technology and marketing, and Royal Melbourne Show visitors are encouraged to come to the Dairy Foods Pavilion (Map Ref F3) and take an active part in this boom industry.

What better way can there be to get your recommended three serves of dairy foods daily by sampling flavored and fermented milk, specialty cheeses, delicious yogurts, dairy desserts and mouth-watering icecream to be found inside the Pavilion?

The Australian Dairy Corporation will supply and educate visitors on health and nutrition plus provide delicious dairy-based recipes while a variety of commercial exhibitors will offer a broad range of dairy produce and showbags.

Live milking display

Did you know in Australia there are four breeds of dairy cows which all produce the same milk? Patrons can see this dairy wonder for themselves inside the Nature's Way exhibit (Map Ref C6 & B6).

Cows will be milked on the hour between 11am-4pm, with the "fruits" of their labor being collected just like in a real dairy by equipment courtesy of Baco Brown and Sons.

The chips will be flying when the woodchoppers take to the blocks at the show. And there will be plenty to see for lovers of other sports.

Show for all sports

SPORTING fans are well catered for at this year's Show, where a plethora of personalities and events are sure to send visitors' temperatures rising.

Fans will have the chance to rub shoulders with their favorite footballers and cricketers, play some three-on-three basketball or watch the chips fly at the woodchopping.

The Show is one of the premier events on the woodchopping calendar and is extremely popular with axemen alike. This year more than 1844 entrants will be competing.

For the first time in the woodchop event, a father-and-son event will take place and record entries have been received. Some 24 pairs from every state in Australia plus New Zealand have been drawn to the event — more than any other Royal this year.

Australia and New Zealand will also do battle in the under 21 woodchopping test series.

The three glamor events — the International Underhand Championship (375mm), International Standing Block Championship and Australian Tree Felling Championship — are well supported.

Returning to the Show this year is world champion tree feller Matthew Gurr, from Deloraine, Tasmania, who last year stunned the crowd at the Royal Melbourne Show to win the tree-felling handicap event from 75 seconds.

Another first on the sporting events schedule is pig racing, presented by the Vandeleur family.

Tom and Michael Vandeleur will entertain the crowd with their stable of racing pigs that run a circular track of 40-50m in 8-10 seconds.

Located opposite the woodchop lawn, the pig racing and Vandeleur family exhibition includes a display of tree climbing by one of the world's best — Dane Marbutt, Lacey, Washington, ranked in the top five in the world.

Michael Vandeleur, Australia's only professional log roller, will team up with the US's Scott Hyde in a 15 minute display of axe throwing, skipping, rope tricks, juggling and speed rolling.

Win can be worth thousands

Udderly great sight: Dairy cattle judging at last year's show.

Making a dollar has never been easier.

You can make your own commemorative 'M' mint mark $1 coin at the Royal Australian Mint Stand during the Royal Melbourne Show.

Featured on the reverse of this collector coin is Sir Henry Parkes, the 'Father of Federation' and the 'M' mint mark, which signifies that the coin was minted in Melbourne. Only limited numbers of this 'M' mint marked $1 coin will be made. There will also be a range of other new release Mint products on display and for sale, including the Sir Donald Bradman $5 bi-metallic uncirculated coin.

You'll see why making a dollar has never been easier at the Mint Stand, Lennon Avenue next to the animal nursery.

ROYAL AUSTRALIAN MINT

EXHIBITING cattle at the Royal Melbourne Show gives breeders the opportunity to look in their neighbors' back yards to see how their genetics stack up.

While there has been a lean towards judging cattle on scientific measurements, most major cattle shows still focus on visual appraisal.

And that comes down to the judge's opinion on the day.

For the breeder, a win at the Royal Melbourne Show can add thousands of dollars to later sales of his prime beasts.

But it comes at great cost.

Phil Collins, of the Merrigrange Angus stud at Tennyson, near Rochester, estimates it costs him about $5000 to send a team of six people and up to 20 cattle to Melbourne for the Show each year.

And that is scrimping it by cooking some of their own meals and living in the meagre accommodation provided.

Mr Collins said it had "to be in your blood" to exhibit cattle. "It's not an easy life," he said.

But for the Collins family, it has had its rewards.

Merrigrange has a stranglehold on Angus titles at the Royal Melbourne, having been judged most successful exhibitor for about 15 consecutive years.

Selecting cattle for showing varies from breeder to breeder.

Mr Collins and son Peter pick out prospective candidates in early July, based on eye appeal and correctness in feet, legs and body.

Selecting them two months from the Show when the cattle are thin poses problems, as feeding them results in some coming up better than others.

Then comes the big job of breaking them in.

Graeme Wesley, of the Orcadia Park Murray Grey stud, at Flinders, said he believed a breeder should be able to pick show animals when they were a week old.

Mr Wesley has won 61 championships and reserve championships in 23 years of showing at Melbourne.

He said he believed the publicity gain from winning at Melbourne was the best shop window you could have.

It is the sales later in the year which recoup the expense of going to the Melbourne Show.

Last year, Mr Wesley won $5000 after taking out the grand champion bull in the feature breed — a feat he accomplished in 1986 when the spotlight was last on Murray Greys.

So what does it cost him to pack his prize beasts off to Melbourne? "I'm not game enough to work it out. I might not go if I actually figured it out," Mr Wesley said.

• The Weekly Times, Australia's biggest selling rural newspaper, will carry regular reports on the beef cattle judging and results of other sections during the Show.

In addition, a comprehensive list of all Royal Show winners will be published in the paper soon after the Show.

Keep your eye on The Weekly Times for details.

Creative farm inventors

Farmers certainly are an inventive bunch. If you can't buy it, you make it out in the bush.

For centuries, farmers the world over have had to adapt to their often isolated environment and find materials to make farm equipment — it's called improvisation.

These days often a modification is enough to do the job, but occasionally farmers have the time and the imagination to work from the ground up to make something original.

And some of the most innovative farm inventions will be on display at the farm the Farm Inventors Competition.

Inventions such as portable sawmills for one or two-man operation for milling timber on the farm, a safety jack to use under machinery, a quick-action electric fence insulator and even a germinating seed box to raise seeds in just a few days are just some of the inventions which have raised the eyebrows of judges in past years.

While some entries have not been as commercially-oriented as others, you can see them all on display under the AG Hunter Stand (Map ref D6) along with a huge variety of agricultural equipment, gadgets and machinery at the Royal Melbourne Show.

Value in showbags

Fun and games

FROM music to theatre, there is something to keep all the family entertained at this year's Show.

Patrons can take a break and watch the many stage and theatre productions running each day of the Show or take to the streets and enjoy the host of roving entertainers.

There are also all the usual thrilling rides like the Ferris Wheel and Mad Mouse plus the fun of sideshow alley where kids and parents of all ages can put their show skills to the test.

On the Streets Lawn, entertainment runs all day and well into the night.

The Streets Paddle Pop Lion Show is great fun and the Combined Police Concert Band provides listening pleasure for all ages.

At the Dugdale Theatre, Johnny Young's Young Talent Team and the Ronald McDonald McMagical Circus Show are also great for the kids, while Mark Myer's Erwin Keneval is a real thrill.

On the street theatre scene, visitors will find the Aboriginal Music & Dance Troupe, the jazz band Anything Goes and other musical treats such as the up-tempo Brazil Nuts band.

Also roving the streets of the Showgrounds will be jugglers, stilt walkers and clowns.

Sunday September 22, is a highlight of the entertainment schedule when the Main Arena hosts Farm Sunday.

This provides a snapshot of the farming life with an emphasis on fun. There's plenty of competitions including dog jumping, sheep counting, sheaf tossing and haystack making.

Farm Sunday also has demonstrations of whip cracking, butter making and horse riding and a huge Aussie BBQ to keep all the family well fed.

The Main Arena also plays host to exciting evening entertainment, including Fireworks, Hot Air Balloon races, Precision Driving displays, Stunt Motorcycles, Massed Highland Band Performances and Crazy Clowns.

On the Woodchop Lawn, the crowd will be enthralled by pig racing, log rolling, and a working with wood exhibition while for those more fies of foot, there's Highland dancing on the Geoffrey Howell Lawn and footscotching in Cenotaph Hall.

Showbags, or Sample Bags as they were first known, are unique to Australia. Not even America's famous State Fairs have anything similar

At the beginning of this century some food companies, mainly confectionery makers, gave away free samples of their goods in bags, as an advertising gimmick. Special small products and containers were made as samples. Hence the name Sample Bags.

The companies soon found the best place to distribute the bags and advertise their wares was at the agricultural shows around the country. Nearly every district had a show and large crowds attended.

During the 1930s the companies stopped giving the bags away free and began to charge for them. The famous Showbag was on its way. In the 1950s Showbags based on toys appeared and later, when television had gained popularity, Showbags based on television programs were introduced.

Today there are Showbags based on toys, lollies, films and themes such as novelty jokes. And 218 bags will be up for inspection, eight more than last year. A stringent inspection is carried out by the Royal Agricultural Society of Victoria Limited, the Office of Fair Trading and Business Affairs, the Industry Monitoring representatives of the Office of Small Business and Youth Affairs and the City of Melbourne's Health Services.

The breakdown of Showbags includes: 50 per cent novelty; 40 per cent confectionery; 1 per cent dairy; 1 per cent horticulture; 8 per cent others.

RASV chief executive, Peter Payne says Showbags are an integral part of the Show, yet the Society in association with other organisations has maintained its charter to broaden the scope and value of Showbags.

Melbourne was the first Royal Show in Australia to introduce the inspection process about 16 years ago, an effort involving checking weights, labelling and packaging which ensures consumer health and welfare is protected. Vendors are also required to openly display every item for sale in the Showbags so adults and children can make informed decisions about what they buy.

The showbags are not only great fun, they offer multiple choice of products for a minimum amount of money. Of the selection, some of the wonderful bags on offer this year include:

* Value is the name of the game for the Fowlers Vacola Aussie Sampler Bag, containing over $50 of old fashioned products for only $7.50. The selection includes teas and coffee drinks, shortbread, fruit snacks, nuts, tomato sauces, discount meal vouchers and even a plum pudding - all served up in a genuine calico carrier bag!

* Football clubs too are this year making a strong contest of the Showbag trade. One of the Essendon Football Club bags is worth $66.75 but on sale for only $12. Items include sports bag, mini leather football, footy tipping board, visor, magazine, stationary, video voucher and Sheedy pamphlet. And the Footy Show has a bag too, comprising a sports bag, ceramic coffee mugs and embroidered cap plus ride vouchers - $34.50 value for just $10.

* Education is high on the Showbag list too and includes the Victorian Canine Association Showbag carrying food, treats and nicker giveaways for $6. And again for just $6 find out all you need to about organic farming and other ideas when you pick up the Permaculture Showbag for $6.

While for people who cannot resist a sweet temptation, there is the Aussie Chocolate Lovers bag for $7.50.
